

Contribution ID: 107

Type: not specified

Can mainline Linux run on Android without vendor hooks?

Monday, 13 November 2023 17:30 (15 minutes)

There has been a lot of effort to bring Android out of tree patches to a minimum. With GKI effort this has reduced significantly, but somewhat artificially as some of these patches are now implemented as vendor hooks in modules. Why are they needed and can we ever get rid of them?

Primary author: Mr YOUSEF, Qais (Google)

Presenter: Mr YOUSEF, Qais (Google)

Session Classification: Android MC

Track Classification: LPC Microconference: Android MC