One Decade of Commit Rights in DRM

Friday 12 December 2025 15:45 (45 minutes)

It's been exactly 10 years ago when I decided to toss in the towel on finding more co-maintainers, and instead added 10 committers to the drm/i915 tree. Since then commit rights has been a great success story in DRM, and this talk will dig into some of the lessons learned and reasons why that is the case. But there's still challenges and pain points left to sort out for the future, and some which have only been finally tackled this year. And those will be covered too.
