

Kernel Documentation

Who should apply that patch?

Who are our readers?

Kernel developers

User-space developers

System administrators

Distributors

End users

...

Organization

core-api/

Core kernel API stuff

userspace-api/

Stuff for application
developers

process/

How to participate in kernel development

admin-guide/

Stuff for sysadmins

dev-tools/

Tools for kernel
development

...

Toolchain improvements

:c:func: `vma1loc()` `elimination

Better PDF generation

...?

Cruft

From: Jonathan Neuschäfer <j.neuschaef@gmx.net>
To: linux-doc@vger.kernel.org
Cc: linux-arm-kernel@lists.infradead.org, Jonathan Neuschäfer <j.neuschaef@gmx.net>, Jonathan Corbet <corbet@lwn.net>, Mauro Carvalho Chehab <mchehab+samsung@kernel.org>, linux-kernel@vger.kernel.org
Subject: [PATCH 1/2] Documentation/arm/sa1100: Remove some obsolete documentation
Date: Thu, 8 Aug 2019 18:58:55 +0200

The support for the following boards, among others, was removed in 2004 with commit "[ARM] Remove broken SA1100 machine support.":

- ADS Bitsy
- Brutus
- Freebird
- ADS GraphicsClient Plus
- ADS GraphicsMaster
- Höft & Wessel Webpanel
- Compaq Itsy
- nanoEngine
- Pangolin
- PLEB
- Yopy

Tifon support has been removed in 2.4.3.3.

Signed-off-by: Jonathan Neuschäfer <j.neuschaef@gmx.net>

---

Documentation/arm/sa1100/adsbitsy.rst		51	-----
Documentation/arm/sa1100/brutus.rst		69	-----
Documentation/arm/sa1100/freebird.rst		25	-----

Is all this worthwhile?

I don't much care for Documentation/ -- code should be readable and have sufficient comments; I hate rst and I think that anything that detracts from reading code comments in an editor is pure evil.

— Peter Zijlstra

Who applies the patch
Organization
Toolchain
Craft
Delete it all?

